

An aerial photograph of a cemetery. The cemetery is divided into several sections. At the top, there is a road with a median and some vehicles. Below the road, there are several large, rectangular sections of graves, each with a distinct layout. In the center, there is a circular section with a central building. At the bottom, there are more rectangular sections, some with a grid-like pattern. A red triangle points to a specific area in the middle section, and a yellow rectangle highlights an area in the bottom right section. The surrounding area is mostly green with some trees and a few buildings.
